H. Donner, of Anderson, Ind., who has been at the Monongahela House for the last two weeks, practically closed a contract with the Schulte Bridge company for the building of a mill in his town. The mill, exclusive of machinery, will cost $150,000. Though Mr. Donner was told by some manufacturers that there was no money in tin plate without a readjustment of wages, he either took no notice in his assertions or else he anticipates that the adjustment will be made.

The mill at Anderson will be as complete as money can make it. The firm will be known as the National Tin Plate Company.

Though the Oliver Bros. refuse to deny or affirm the statement that they intend to turn the South Pitt street plant into a tin plate mill, it is a fact that one of them has stated that is their intention. When they will begin to make the necessary alterations is not known.

The plant of the Pittsburgh Tin Plate Company at New Kensington is completed and paid for; only the starting of the machinery remains to be done. The plant has cost about $225,000. As already published, ground has been broken for the $1,000,000 plant at New Kensington, in which Goldsmith & Loewenberg, of Portland, Ore., are interested.

Some months ago the Dispatch published an interview with Mr. Smith, of the McKelley Tin Plate Company, of Wilkesburg. In that interview Mr. Smith said that there was money in tin plate even under the Wilson tariff. From the facts related above other business men evidently think likewise.

HOW IT WORKS

The Glass Business of the Country Booming Under the Wilson Bill

The beneficial effects of the new tariff bill are everywhere being felt, notwithstanding the statements to the contrary made by the Republican newspapers. A telegram from Antwerp, Ohio, gives the following solid facts touching this subject:

S. C. Cole, a glass manufacturer from the Southern Indiana glass belt, received a profound and true political speech here tonight when he went back on protection. Said he: "With free gas and free material we can make glass cheaper than in Europe. The McKelley law hurt our industry because it prevented the use of American glass bottles in the export trade and, upon which we depended largely, and now with cheaper bottles we can add the exporters of liquids to sell abroad."

The Commoner and Glassmaker of recent date confirms the statement of improvement in the glass trade in the following paragraph: "General business conditions are improving at all points, and traveling men and others with whom we have had interviews present a more cheerful front and talk confidently of the future. There is not one branch of the glass trade that does not show improvement except plate glass. In window glass there is a steady improvement, but it is difficult at times for buyers to get orders filled, but as the factories are now getting down to good work there should be no more inconvenience on this score."

OUR DUTY.

I have not observed that Sherman, McKinley, Harrison or any of the Republican leaders have taken up and compared the items of the McKinley law that were better and more beneficial to our people than the Democratic statute passed by the last congress. Our papers have published the two laws and opposite each article subject to the tariff have put the tariff under the McKinley statute opposite that of the Democratic enactment. In the Democratic law, in a very large number of items, a majority are largely lessened. Democracy is a party of progress and ever had been so. Since this is a world of progress the Republican party and the trust parties it represents is on the contrary a stand-still party and works for the interests of the wealthy few and not for the masses of the whole people. And it undervalues popular intelligence else it would have sought to charge the business panic, now happily at an end, on the Cleveland administration which had not been in office a year when it occurred. But the people will do justice. Democrats will do their duty at the coming election. They will not go backward. It is true that Democrats have had some division in determining between what was desirable and what was practicable, as McKinley dodge the question. But the Sherman policy was designed to flood the country with silver till it should compel the people in disgust to do it away as a part of the equal currency of America, and of the masses, who are better acquainted with it and paper than with gold. But that game did not win. Yet Democrats will need to sustain what has been done and what is yet to do, without neglect, for it has been well said, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty."

Let protection be limited, reduced and eradicated till it should be universal acknowledgment that the best protection for the industries in the United States of America is the equal and superior energy, intelligence and effort of our people. M.

The Welsh tin plate manufacturers are satisfied that the new tariff will not ruin the tin industry in this country, and have adopted a method which they think will deal the finishing stroke. At a meeting of Welsh manufacturers held recently it was decided to issue an invitation to Welsh workmen now residing in America to return to Wales. It was even agreed to pay their passage money of they decided to accept their invitation. The Welsh manufacturers stated that they had two objects in view. One is to relieve the currency of skilled tin plate workers now left in Great Britain, the other is to take the men from America for the purpose of crippling the American trade.

The American Manufacturer yesterday referred to this, and in commenting thereon said the tin plate industry was here to stay, and that if the Welsh workmen were to leave it would not affect the trade.

"I never Welsh workman were to return to Europe," said Secretary Killgallon, of the Amalgamated Association, "it would make no difference. There are plenty of skilled workmen to take their place in the industry. And the tin plate mills are being built, they simply returned to the work they used to do in the old country, and gave up their places to other workmen."

The Welsh manufacturers, however, will have to hustle to deprive this country of the tin plate industry. In addition to the mills already in existence more are being constructed. W.

The Lima Gazette asks voters to discriminate against Tom Fitzgerald and Peter Leis because they are foreign born citizens, and vote for George Taylor, whom no one in Lima or Allen county knows to have been naturalized, who alludes to England as "My Country," and who, but a few months ago, sent his family "home to England" to visit. A man should become a citizen of the United States and a resident of the county before he asks for an office.

THE MAINE MOCCASIN.

By No Means Handsome, But Hated by Lumbermen East and West.

"Everybody who has been in Maine during the winter among the lumbermen and boot-makers knows the bluish looking muddily yellow moccasins these citizens wear," said a veteran leather dealer in the swamp. "They call 'em moccasins. The first pair was made by a shoemaker in Bangor, and their form long ago spread to the west. The shoe factories of Bangor now turn out annually something like 100,000 pairs of moccasin boots and one-quarter as many shoes, and there are factories out in Minnesota and Wisconsin that make almost as many."

A person on first seeing this yellow and shaggy footgear would suppose that it was made from some kind of scavenger leather, but it isn't. The material is just common leather, but leather tanned in a way that is known to only a few. All we know is that it is, and some kind of an out of the way oil are the principal ingredients that give the leather its peculiar color and flexibility. This leather has been made years and years before any one thought of using it for boots or shoes. The only use to which it was put up to 1831 was to make linings for mill boots. It was much only at Pawtucket. One day a man named Baldwin, who was a shoemaker in Bangor, made up his mind that the leather was just the thing for winter moccasins, and he made a few pairs. They were tried by lumbermen, and Baldwin proved to be right. Nothing had ever been offered to the Maine lumbermen that filled the bill like Baldwin's yellow moccasins, and in less than a year the big fur trade of Maine and the big fur trade of the west were started in Bangor. Other factories sprang up in Maine, and the tanning of the belt leather made those who knew the secret of it rich in a short time and compelled the increasing of tanning capacity tenfold.

"Until 1871 the boots and shoes were made just as Baldwin made his first pair 20 years before. Then machines for cutting and fashioning the moccasins came into use and revolutionized the business. In 1875, the fad of the Maine moccasin having reached the far western lumber regions, a Bangor firm received an order for a pair from some one in Duquesne. The order was filled, and this led to other orders, until, when the war broke out, the eastern factories were shipping thousands of pairs of Maine moccasins to the west. The war almost killed the business. It began to revive soon after the war, and then rival factories sprang up in the west, and now the great demand for this Maine footgear from the lumber regions of the northwest are now almost entirely filled by factories at St. Paul, Marquette, Minneapolis and other points.

"The value of the moccasin lies almost entirely in the peculiar way in which the leather is tanned. The tanner takes the leather and soaks it in water-proof and a perfect non-stick of heat and cold. The color of the moccasin is a golden yellow, and fashion has made them in the shape of shoes as popular in the town these days, especially in the summer, as they are in the wilderness where the snow is thick deep."

The other night the peculiar overheard an interview between him and one of his boys who had come to town to work and who had contracted some of the fads and fashions of this fast age. The youngster was gayly smiling and street, his hat tipped to one side, his hands in his pockets and a cigarette stuck into the corner of his mouth. The old fellow glared angrily and said, "Look here, nigger, what you doin' yo' mouth?" "Nuffin but a cigarette," "A sicklebeetle! You got to smokin' dum tings? Well, I seed many kinds ob a d—d fool in my day, but I never seed one ob 'em doin' yo' mouth." —Kentucky Advocate.

Every mother should know that, croup can be prevented. The first symptoms of true croup is hoarseness. This is followed by a peculiar rough cough. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given freely as soon as the child becomes hoarse or coughs, the cough has developed it will prevent the attack. 50 cent bottles for sale by Melville, druggist, post office building.

WOMAN'S WORLD.

A TIMELY DISSERTATION ON THE SUBJECT OF TENDER FEET.

A Shrewd Scheme—Her Picture of an English Woman—A Good Business For Women—Mrs. Cleveland—A Democratic Principle—Miss Oliver, Dentist.

Many women can manage to look sweet tempered despite of various forms of physical suffering, but there are very few who can do so when enduring agonies from a bad corn or from tender and swollen feet. This is really too horrible, or is trying to the feet of most of us, particularly if we live in a town, even if we have no corns. There are several ways in which suffering caused by tender feet can be lessened, if not entirely got rid of.

First and foremost, the boots and shoes for summer wear should be half a size larger than those worn during the winter. Shoes are generally considered more comfortable than boots and should certainly be adopted, if possible, in the summer, for they leave the ankle free and the circulation unimpeded. However, if boots must be worn, they should not be too high, as any additional pressure means additional suffering. It is hardly necessary, I hope, to mention that extremely pointed toes and really high heels should never be thought of by any one who values peace of mind and comfort. The leather for summer footwear should be light, but not too thin, and the brown leather should be black, which is better than the black leather. The material is just common leather, but leather tanned in a way that is known to only a few. All we know is that it is, and some kind of an out of the way oil are the principal ingredients that give the leather its peculiar color and flexibility. This leather has been made years and years before any one thought of using it for boots or shoes. The only use to which it was put up to 1831 was to make linings for mill boots. dress and street dresses are all made with waists and jackets. The four-in-hand scarf is giving way to a straight narrow bow. Silver decorations make a pleasant jewelry for a woman walks, and a tightly folded umbrella gives her a good walking stick. Even to gloves the English woman is masculine, for she wears heavy dogskin ones that are loose and clasp with a snap button."

A Good Business For Women.

A shrewd business woman in England herself conducts a fruit and flower store. She manages her business in a unique and beautiful way. Her clerks are girls dressed in a neat and striking uniform. Her trade is in both fresh and preserved fruits. The glass jars and pots of preserves are arranged in systematic and attractive figures, making them look so tempting that customers just must take them away and eat them. The artistic element enters into all the details of her enterprise, as well it might in a trade so pretty and poetic as fruit and flower selling. She has all her clerks' latest for detail, and this accounts for the exquisite neatness and artistic finish of every part of the work. Even the window shades are varied to suit the weather, it is said. The fruits and flowers sold are delivered in spick and span clean, bright wagons, with uniformed clerks and drivers. A page stands at the entrance, and no one is allowed to enter with brass buttons. In this business there is scope for the realization of an artist's dream. Is not this an improvement on a greasy Italian, sucking his vile pipe over the choicest grapes and apricots? Why do not some American women go into a business like this, conducted by the English woman?—Commonwealth.

A French Portia Pleads Her Own Case.

Considerable stir has been excited in the legal circles of Paris over the fact that a woman lawyer was recently allowed to stand up and conduct her own case against a female opponent of the opposite sex. The woman was Madame Herbolot, better known as a writer over the signature "Jeanne Schabert." The fact that she was allowed to conduct her own case, which it seems simple justice from an American point of view, is regarded by Frenchmen as an instance of remarkable liberality on the part of the judges. A number of women who have lately taken their degrees in Paris begin to feel as if they have not lived in vain.

SOMETHING NEW!

Self-Pouring Coffee and Tea Pots

AND A HALF-PINT MAKER THAT TOOK THE CLIMAX AT THE WORLD'S EXHIBITION.

Would you make your wife, mother or sister happy? Then present them with a SELF-POURING COFFEE or TEA POT. The most complete arrangement known to modern science. They make a lovely piece of furniture. We are giving you a saving of ONE-FOURTH TEA or COFFEE; enough in a short while to pay for it. You don't have to lift or tilt in serving. They are really cheap. The salesmen will call and show it to you, or drop a card to

W. T. McKESSICK,
General Travelling Salesman, Lima, O.

TESTIMONIALS:

DAYTON, O., June 25.—I have been using one of the "Half-Pint Coffee Makers" for a few months, and find that it does all that is claimed for it. Keeps the Coffee free from grounds, and pours it out clear and nice. M. H. WATSON, Book Dealer.

SPRINGFIELD, O., September 1.—I have been using one of the Self-Pouring Coffee and Tea Pots for a few months and find that it gives perfect satisfaction in every particular. I use one-fourth less coffee now than I did in the common pot. I cheerfully recommend it to all who are in need of something in this line. Yours very truly,
MRS. E. H. MEYERS.

SAD DEATH

Of Max B. Weisensthal at the City of Rock Island, Illinois

An Overdose of Morphine Ends His Life. Found Dead in His Room at a Hotel.

ROCK ISLAND, Ill., Oct. 30.—(Special)—A ghastly discovery was made about 11 o'clock Monday morning by Wallace Ballard, the porter at the Rock Island house. Receiving no answer to repeated calls made at room 43, Ballard climbed up to the transoms and looking into the room noticed the gas still burning and Max Weisensthal, of Lima, the occupant, lying on the floor, apparently dead. Ballard was notified and the door broken open. Weisensthal was found dressed only in his underclothes and the position of the body indicated that death had come to the unfortunate man in a most agonizing manner. A one-eighth ounce vial of morphine, half empty, lying on the dresser, plainly indicated the cause of his death.

Mr. Weisensthal, who was traveling for a Chicago book supply house, came to the hotel on October 13th and had been there since then. He was quite a gentlemanly fellow about 31 years of age. He was sober during the day, but began drinking after that, informing Clerk McKee that his weakness for liquor had lost him several good positions, and that he was unable to remain at home on account of this. The letters found in his grip bear this out, and also show the tender solicitude by his brothers in Lima and Chicago, who had helped him financially.

Weisensthal only lately secured a position with the Central School Supply house, of Chicago, but does not seem to have been very successful on the road. This made him despondent. He was quite a social man, and had very little money and stated that his folks wanted him to take the Reely cure. Friday he received a check for fifteen dollars from his brother Louis, at Chicago, and the accompanying letter indicated that the money was to be used by Max to pay his fare to Dwight, Ills. Having no other funds left he paid $10 of it on his account at the hotel.

The last seen of the deceased alive was 3 o'clock Monday morning when he rang for ice water. When the boy reached his room Weisensthal was pacing the floor restlessly and smoking his pipe.

A coroner's inquest was held and the coroner's verdict was: "Max Weisensthal came to his death by an overdose of morphine." Louis Weisensthal, of Chicago, was immediately notified and arrived in the city last night. He left for Dayton, O., this morning with the remains.

The funeral will occur in Dayton tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. The family and friends will leave here on the 5:45 o'clock train on the C. H. & D. to-morrow morning to attend the services.

The deceased had not been in Lima for several months and he leaves a host of friends who regret his untimely end and extend sympathy to the bereaved family.

THE ODEONS

Will Give Their First Annual Public Ball on Thanksgiving Eve.

The members of the Odeon Mandolin club are making extensive preparations to give their first annual grand ball in Music Hall on Wednesday evening, November 23, Thanksgiving eve.

The club has been organized nearly two years and as its members are all well known there is nothing to prevent the ball from being a very successful and pleasant affair. However no pains will be spared by the organization to make the event an enjoyable one. The tickets and invitations will be out in a few days.

IN A STAIRWAY.

Tank Builder McGraw Robbed by Three Men.

About 1:30 o'clock this afternoon four drunken tank builders got into the stairway at the Ashton block and three of the gang then robbed the fourth member, a fellow named McGraw of about $25. The latter and two others of the gang then hired a hack and went to South Lima, while the one supposed to have the money disappeared in an alley. Policemen later captured one of the gang and is looking for the others.

An American Lawyer's Plea. Desires of information, Lord Coleridge was inquiring from Mr. Everts, the distinguished New York barrister, formerly secretary of state, how American lawyers were remunerated for their work.

Lord Coleridge—Pray, Mr. Everts, how do clients pay their lawyers with you?

Mr. Everts—Well, my lord, they pay a retaining fee. It may be $50, or it may be $5,000 or $50,000.

Lord Coleridge—Yes, and what does that cover?

Mr. Everts—That is simply the retainer. That is paid for as the work is done and according to the work done.

Lord Coleridge—Yes, Mr. Everts, and do clients like that?

Mr. Everts—Not a bit, my lord, not a bit. They generally say, "I guess, Mr. Everts, I should like to know how deep down I shall have to go into my breeches pocket to see this business through."

Lord Coleridge—Yes. What do you say then?

Mr. Everts—Well, my lord, I have invented a formula which I have found answers very well. I say, "Sir or madam," as the case may be, "I cannot undertake to say how many judicial errors I shall be called upon to correct before I obtain for you final justice."—North American Review.

"The Dazzler"

Oldest Living Actress.

The distinction of being the oldest living actress and of having been in her day one of the ablest of "leading ladies" belongs to Mrs. Rachel Cantor. Mrs. Cantor is passing the declining years of her life in well-earned freedom from all material anxiety in the Forest home in Philadelphia. Her eighty-fourth birthday is at hand, but she is 84 years young, rather than old and has recently been on her long annual summer visit to relatives and friends in and about Boston, making the trip quite unattended. She is an old time and warm friend of many of the veterans of the stage as well as the beloved patron saint of some of the younger school.

During her eastern visit she was the guest among others of Mr. Joseph Jefferson at his Buzzards Bay home and was charmingly received and dry of her stay by Mrs. Grover Cleveland at Gray Gables. Mrs. Cantor, who, by the way, is an aunt of Senator Carlos of New York, was a strikingly beautiful woman in her youth, and today she looks younger than many women of 40. Her hair is white, but it curls softly about her face like large dark eyes retain much of their earlier brilliancy, her figure has lost little of its well rounded contour, and she carries herself with graceful dignity.

The Breaking of the Voice.

The peculiar physiological causes of what is called the breaking of the voice are not quite understood, but it is known to depend immediately upon an organic change in the larynx, the organ of the voice, which occurs in the male sex between the ages of 14 and 16. Before that the larynx of boys resembles that of girls, but when the voice begins to break the vocal chords become lengthened at least one-third, the angle of the thyroid cartilage becomes enlarged, and the muscles which connect the organs of the voice with the hyoid bone and the base of the tongue become elongated.

While the change of form is taking place the voice is rendered for singing and should be used only with great care. In other words, the breaking of the voice is due to the rapid development of the larynx, which takes place at certain ages and which leads to a change in the range of the voice. The peculiar harshness of the voice when it is thus breaking seems to be due to a temporary congestion and swollen condition of mucous membrane of the vocal chords accompanying the active growth of the whole larynx.—Baltimore Eagle.

Familiar.

Visitor—Will you tell your master that I called?

Servant—Yes, sir, if you will please tell me your name.

Visitor—That is unnecessary. He knows me quite well.—Wanderer.

THE ERA OF EXTRAVAGANCE

is a thing of the past. Everyone nowadays seeks how and where they can make the dollar go farthest. That's just what we want! Because the more the people investigate the more they are convinced that (quality considered) Feltz Bros. & Co. name the lowest prices on Dry Goods and Notions in Lima.

This week you will find the following splendid values at our store:

1 bale extra heavy Unbleached Muslin at 5c a yard, would be 10c at 6 1/2 cents.
1 case very heavy Unbleached Cotton Flannel at 7c a yard, generally retailed at 7c a yard.
1 case standard Prints at 3 1/2 c a yard.

Owing to the great success we have had with our 39-inch All Wool Serge at 8 1/4 c a yard, we were induced to purchase another lot of these goods, comprising all the popular colors for this season, such as brown, green, navy, scarlet, cardinal, also black. The price on this lot will be 37 1/2 c a yard, same as before. You know the value.

The economical and money saving way, of which we are the exclusive representatives in this city, is to cut carpets to match without waste, often saving several dollars on a single carpet. See our Ingrain Carpets at 32c, 39c, 45c, 49c, 55c and 59c a yard. We also carry a full line of samples of Tapestry, Body Brussels, Wilton Velvet and Moquette Carpets, at money-saving prices.
